

Area of a Rectangle

If you want to find the area, area, area

If you want to find the area,

Then you multiply side by side. (side by side)

A rectangle has length and width.

You multiply the pair.

You're finding all the space inside,

And the units in the answer are squared.

If you want to find the area, area, area

If you want to find the area,

Then you multiply side by side. (side by side)